Foster! Adopt! Mentor!

Answer The Call!

117,000 children and teens are waiting to be adopted. The number of children in foster care nationwide increased 2.3% this year to 437,465 a figure that has risen every year since 2012. Studies indicate that one out of every four youth who age-out of foster care will end up in a homeless shelter within three years. Nevada has the lowest high school graduation in the United States.

Madam Vice President Kamala Harris Soror Kymberlie Brown, What The Vice Presidency Means to Me

Written By: Sarah Holcomb

Kymberlie is a Human Resources professional, as well as an active general member of the South Central Region of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority Inc. (AKA), along with newly anointed Madam Vice President Kamala Harris Vice President of the United States (VPOUS). Kymberlie joined the AKA in Spring of 2007 at Tulane University, in where she pursued a Master's in Business Administration with a Juris Doctorate concentration. In her spare time, Kymberlie operates a non-profit organization, preparing college students for the workforce.

She mentors them on how to prepare for interviews, how to present themselves, what questions to ask.

She also facilitates educational opportunities for them such as: scholarships or potential internships. Kymberlie also sponsors students that receive opportunities to travel and study abroad.

Her latest sponsor, a Psychology major, traveled to Barbados to study extinct chimpanzees in their natural habitat.

Kymerlie Brown, What The Vice Presidency Means to Me

With a passion for community service, joining Alpha Kappa Alpha was a natural choice for Kymerlie, which she describes as a life-long membership. She joined this sorority for an opportunity give back to her community. "We're a family. It's about looking out for one another." Kymerlie says it's also about helping others through difficult times of adversity.

Like many women, Kymerlie says it was difficult not to become emotional when reflecting on watching Madam VPOUS being sworn into office as the first woman of color Vice President in American history.

"When I watched her, I felt like we made it" Kymerlie says, referring to the African American community, and in particular women. "VP Harris not only represents Alpha Kappa Alpha and women of color, she represents all women...I love that she had the courage to go after one of the highest political seats in the country and to own it enough to say, I belong here, and I'm comfortable sitting in this seat". Kymerlie also notes that Madam VPOUS represents courage and perseverance, pointing out that "VP Harris wasn't born into any powerful family like the Kennedy or Bush families. However, within the realm of impossibility, she still accomplished her goal." For Kymerlie, Madam VPOUS represents AKA's Motto very well: By Culture and By Merit. "Because of VP Kamala I'm encouraged to continue reaching my goals, and be comfortable doing so."

Youth Spotlight

Elijah lives with his parents who he describes as very supportive, and who welcomed him into their family after spending years in the foster and juvenile system. Elijah is close with all of his family, including his grandmother, sister, and best friend-turned-brother, and he says that the current pandemic brought them even closer. His family also consists of four dogs, one of which he is particularly close with. After compiling a detailed and very persuasive PowerPoint presentation about why he should have his own dog,

Elijah Brown

His family also consists of four dogs, one of which he is particularly close with. After compiling a detailed and very persuasive PowerPoint presentation about why he should have his own dog, Elijah convinced his parents to rescue a Chow/Lab/Border Collie mix that he named Akela. A big animal lover, Elijah loves to spoil Akela with treats and gifts, take her on walks, and train her.

Elijah is currently studying to be a certified massage therapist, an opportunity-rich career that he is invested in and passionate about. When he is not studying, Elijah enjoys hiking and pyrography, an art form that involves decorating wood using a heated poker

Elijah is also passionate about the LGBTQ+ community, which he says has helped him tremendously. Through this supportive community he has met his friends and family, and even acted as the catalyst himself to influence legislation in Nevada that grants the same rights of transgender youth to their peers within the foster system.

Another fun fact about Elijah is that he chose his own name. Inspired by his late friend Elias, Elijah created his name as it felt like the right fit. He also chose his middle name Bishop, and his last name Brown, which is the name of the area where he spent so much time as a homeless youth.

Elijah's mother says that his name represents his story and his journey, and he couldn't agree more.

Mentor, inspiration, and Motivational Boss Woman Changing Narratives!: Stephanie Arone

Written By: Keisha Mitchell

Stephanie Arone, CEO of Activity Planners- a professional Destination Management Company providing local event planning services to local clients, began her journey as a young woman traveling from New York to Las Vegas. When asked how'd she do it, she replied "Just make that move." By her definition, "Just make that move" means to know that challenges can come with any move, but how will you even know if you don't take that move? You will never know the possibilities in the world if you stay still, you have to get to moving!

As women, we face challenges as we strive to take the lead. Knowing the history for women, I inquired on any challenges that Stephanie may have faced as a woman. She replied with such elegance "I can't say that being a woman made my road any more, or any less bumpy. Because any road can have challenges. We must focus on our individuality, peace and light. When we build the confidence to not worry with what others may call us or say about us then we can focus on being our best selves." She knows first hand, that confidence won't always be there so she recommends taking it step by step, "Look in the mirror, adjust your crown and keep moving!"

Stephanie's Top 3 Gems:

1. "Always be yourself, everyone else is taken."
2. "Share kindness"
3. "Manage your finances like you are as broke as you've ever been."

Technology is predominant in almost every single field. It's not a surprise that it is a requirement for graduation for high school students. It runs the world. Daily life couldn't be possible without it, as it shapes and advances humanity to its peak. It's unavoidable, and it is essential to master.

Starting as a kid, coding has been an important aspect of my life. My father has been coding for almost 22 years of his life. So, I grew up learning some code and was interested in it as well. However, unlike my dad, I was not interested in sitting in front of a computer with a language that only a machine could understand. Trying to find out where in 1,000 lines of code that I forgot to add a semicolon, but as a kid, I knew that it was still something I needed to learn if I was planning on advancing in a field I love the most, Science. In 9th grade, I joined an organization called Code 4Tomorrow. It allowed teens like me to help teach other children in middle schools and even some in elementary coding. I was a bit taken aback by how 5-year-old kids came into the virtual classroom setting on zoom and had an interest in it, and asked questions. I was able to learn the ability to communicate, explain, and create organized, detailed sets of lesson plans to teach. It was an enjoyable experience, and planning on doing it again soon!

Former First Lady Continues to Encourage Healthy Lifestyles

Written By: Lenna

COVID-19 has affected so many, especially children around the world in many ways. One way children have been affected is by their nutrition, over 370 million children have missed school lunches throughout the pandemic. This causes them to eat much less, which can contribute to eating disorders and malnutrition. In 2010, the incredible First Lady led a “Let’s Move!” campaign established as part of the Take Force on Childhood Obesity. Her four principles are: creating a healthy start for children, empowering parents and caregivers, improving healthy food in school, and increasing physical activity. The principle of increasing physical activity is more important now than ever with the new COVID-19 sedentary lifestyle of virtual learning, along with club sports being shut down. To continue helping children and parents, healthy lifestyle advocate Michelle Obama’s is hosting a new show called “Waffles + Mochi.” The show will be launching March 16th, 2021 on Netflix, made not only to teach children new home-made recipes but to also help those struggling in this time emotionally. Michelle hopes to bring many laughs to our families. It is campaigns such as these that will help bring our world out from the hole we have dug ourselves in with the pandemic, and insanity of our world today.

“The Goldbrick” by: Dr. Seuss

Reviewed By: Amulya

One of Dr. Seuss’ political cartoons called “The Goldbrick” depicts Private Snafu who is encouraged by a singing Goldbrick fairy to neglect his duties. In the end, Goldbrick is in disguise and claims that if he finds more people to trick then Japan might win the war. This political cartoon is illustrated in a way that it is both entertaining to view and yet you can observe its overall message that the army should train without showing laziness or else they would lose the war and lead to their death. The story has a deeper meaning than just a bald guy and a fairy. Most of his books are similar in that these stranger characters tell us a narrative portraying a strong message.

Food & Body Positivity in Social Media

Written By: Lenna

I recently started eating healthier due to social media influencers on different platforms. These influencers have helped me discover creativity in cooking and making delicious food with many health benefits. One of my greatest motivations is people that have confidence in what they eat and show true signs of happiness, like the female singer Lizzo. She expresses a lot of her favorite foods on different platforms, and does not feel guilty about what she eats, because she makes sure she eats what feels right. I feel that restricting your body is wrong, and over the pandemic so many kids and adults have done so. We need to fuel our bodies and every day it is influencers and strong women like Michell Obama that help us do so.

Celebrating Amazing Women in History

Written By: Amulya Rayabhagi

Marie Curie: First woman to win a nobel prize but also the first person to win two nobel prizes in two different science fields to this day.

Anne Frank: A jewish girl trapped in Nazi occupied Holland and wrote in her diary about the events which followed which allows everyone to catch a glimpse of the horrific concentration camps. Her diary is spread all over the world, has been translated into 70 languages and has sold 30 million copies.

Claudette Clovin: A teenage civil rights activist. She refused to give up her seat to a white passenger while going home from high school. She was arrested and she was given not- guilty. She was the first woman to do this even before Rosa Parks.

Sojourner Truth: She was born into slavery and escaped for freedom with her infant daughter. She spoke about so many inspirational things: emancipation, racism, women's rights, segregation. She is known for her famous speech: Ain't I a woman?

Marsha P. Johnson and Sylvia Rae Rivera: Both of them were LBQT activists and drag queens who sparked a national LGBTQ movement around the country. Two of them work hand in hand and are the cofounders of Street Transvestite Action Revolutionaries (STAR) an organization helping runaway transgenders and drag women of color.

Mildred Didrikson Zaharias: She is an American athlete who did exceptionally well in basketball, golf, baseball, track and field. She has won 2 gold medals in the Summer Olympics 1932 and turned into a professional golfer winning 10 LPGA (Ladies professional golf association) major championships.

Malala Yousafzai: She lived in Pakistan and when Taiban took over they enforce a rule that girls are banned from going to school. She publicly spoke about women's right to education and she came close to death because of this but luckily survived and she is the youngest person to receive the Nobel Peace Prize.

Written By: Amulya Rayabhagi

Born on March 2, 1904, Theodor Seuss Geisel best known as Dr. Seuss is one of the most notable American authors of all time. He continues to be an inspiration to young children, and his books taught us morals as we grew older. His style of writing was like no other, making his books interesting. In all his books his style was 4 groups of 3 syllables rhythmic patterns from unstressed-unstressed-stressed showed through.

He published over 60 books in his lifetime and had also been a political cartoonist and drew over 400 in just 2 years. His stories and cartoons have deeper meaning to them. They might have funny names and characters but they illustrated a larger impact in the reader's mind as readers connected these characters' names to attributes that best well fit them.

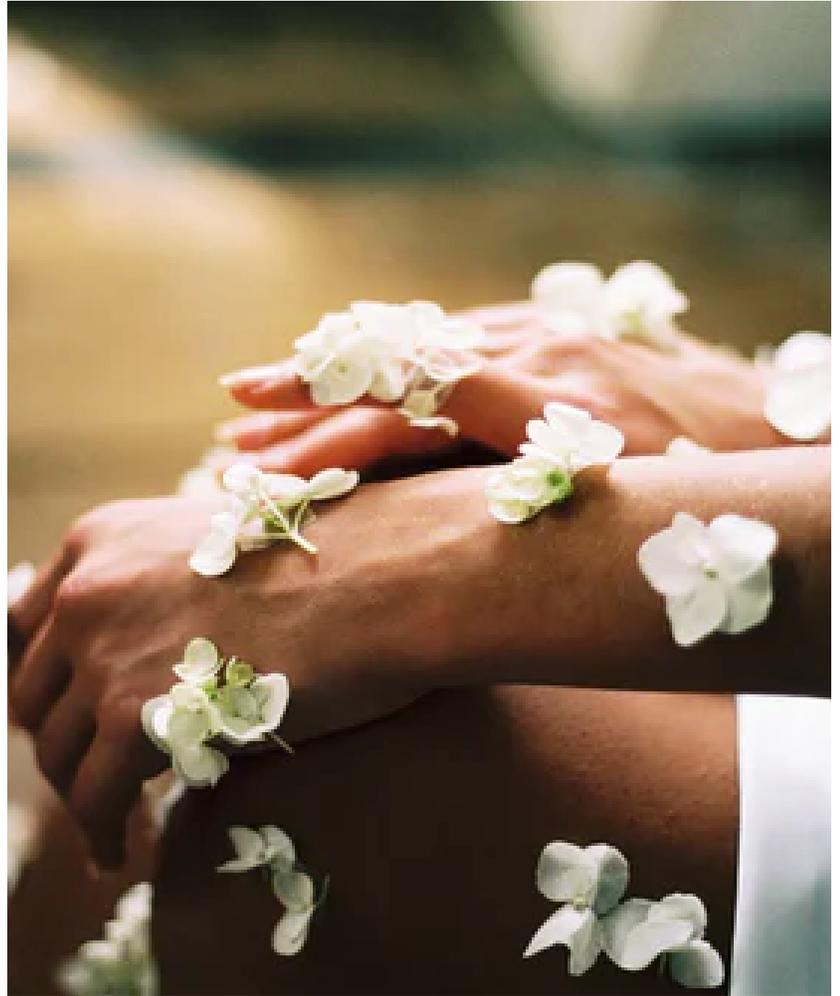

I encourage all of you to get yourself in your favorite spot and curl up and read one of his many books. Feel inspired, enriched, and just enjoy the sense of both wisdom and tranquility. As Josh Billings said, "Good nonsense is good sense in disguise". Dr. Seuss' writing is hysterical and you will soon fall in love with it, no matter what age you are.

The Mindful Corner

Written By: Loney Nguyen, LCSW-C

Mindfulness is a technique that can help us stop and be in the present moment rather than the past or the future. By practicing mindfulness, we can learn to become more aware of our own thoughts, feelings, and the environment around us. It helps us to refocus and recenter our mind, body, and spirit. Throughout this issue, you have read several articles that may have been thought-provoking or tapped into your emotions. Whether you were inspired by a story or an article triggered a traumatic memory for you, take this moment to reflect on how you are feeling and switch gears to some fun activities.

Foster! Adopt! Mentor!

Take a Fast 5

With our demanding schedules, virtual meeting overload, and burnout, it is important to stop and take at least 5 minutes to connect and re-align our mind, body and spirit. While it is ideal to set aside 30 minutes for mindfulness, let's just start with a quick 5 minutes. This technique is something you can quickly practice 5 minutes of your day before you get started with work or 5 minutes between ending work and resuming your home life.

1. Sit comfortably in a quiet room with a cup of tea, coffee, wine or beverage of your choice depending on the time of day and preference.
2. Take a deep breath, as you inhale, remember to engage your diaphragm (balloon breathing we discussed last month). As you exhale, count to 3.
3. Next focus and engage your 5 senses: Sight, Sound, Smell, Touch, Taste. What do you see? What do you hear? What do you smell? What do you feel or can touch? What can you taste?
4. For each sense, take 1 minute to embrace the sense. Truly embrace it, how it makes you feel emotionally and physically. What sensation do you feel as you take a sip of your beverage? Does it warm your spirit, or energize your mind?
5. After taking those 5 minutes to engage your senses, challenge yourself to continue engaging your senses throughout the day.

Zodiac of the Month

(Note all descriptions are for entertainment purposes only)

- They are very imaginative. They are big dreamers and they do achieve them. Surprisingly it is significantly much easier for them to do so because of their attitude and their personality.
- They can be sometimes a bit confusing to understand as they appear to be “odd balls” in nature, but in reality if you take your time trying to understand them they will make your everyday life interesting.
- Pisces are really good at keeping secrets. On the other hand, they are bad at revealing their own secrets. If they do tell you their secret, consider yourself to be the most important person in their life. They usually are more reserved and try journaling it or maybe telling their pet.
- They are the best of friends. They will be there for you in your highs and lows. They will give you the best advice of all time and know how to make you feel better in any given situation. They are extremely compassionate and will always sit with you to listen to what you have to say.
- One of their weaknesses is laziness. Yes, sometimes Pisces just like to lay in their pajamas all day and just have a day for themselves without being productive or even making plans to go out with their friends. They just like to be alone sometimes and do nothing.
